Session Summary

- From a learning perspective, you can find everything from augmentative and alternative communication to time management. But, how do you find a good app that will meet your needs?
- Join us as we talk about several different categories that can help students with disabilities with learning in the mobile environment.
- Some key areas covered will be Note Taking/Writing, Reading/Text to Speech, Recording and Time Management/Organization.

Key Ideas for APP Selection

5 W's (Who, What, When/Where & Why)

- Who is it designed for (IOS, Windows, etc.)
- What does it do (single use or multiple use)
- When/Where can you access it (wi-fi, cell minutes, neither)
- Why – was it recommended

Things to consider!

- Just because “there’s an app for that” it doesn’t mean that it’s right for everyone.
- Read the reviews posted by other users regarding the app (Itunes, Google Play, YouTube, Developer’s website, etc.)
- Analyze what you want to use the app for and then see if it meets your criteria and is suitable for your age group.

Free!

- The lite apps are available to give you a taste of the software.
- These help you
 - Try before you buy!
 - Save Money
 - Determine if the app meets your needs
