

FOR EVERYTHING YOU CAN BECOME.

The Jones Learning Center (JLC), a comprehensive support program at Ozarks, is designed to serve students with documented learning disabilities, AD/HD, or Autism Spectrum Disorder who can think critically, but need additional support to demonstrate their knowledge in a traditional academic environment.

Jones Learning Center Provides:

- Unlimited support hours each week
- Individual support provided by full-time professional staff
- Access to an individual personalized session with coordinator at a reserved time each day
- Majority of support is provided individually
- Total immersion in an academically competitive baccalaureate University

Other Programs Provide:

- Limited weekly hours of total supportive services
- Majority of support provided by non-professional or part-time staff
- Appointments held individually as they are available
- Support provided mainly in group format
- Environment may be modified for students with disabilities

FROM "I CAN'T" TO "I WILL!" A ONE-OF-A-KIND SET OF TOOLS TO HELP YOU EXCEL.

Coaching, time management, and organization assistance plus academic support provided in daily sessions with an academic support coordinator.

Limited student enrollment preserves the low student-to-staff ratio.

Unlimited, individual peer tutoring provided for each course by trained peer tutors.

A rich and successful history of understanding the needs and expectations of bright college-bound students who require academic support in order to compensate for specific learning disabilities, AD/HD and ASD.

SUPPORT BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

The Jones Learning Center began serving students diagnosed with disabilities on the Autism Spectrum in 2012. In a model that combines the comprehensive academic support services with an enhanced residential life component and individualized social thinking skills training, the JLC partners with students to ease their transitions to college life and beyond by focusing on acquiring and applying social thinking and independent living skills. Designed for highly capable students who may need extensive support during their first year of college, support can continue throughout the college experience through group meetings, individual sessions, and a variety of social activities.
